

35th Cong. - Special sen.

JOURNAL OF THE EXECUTIVE PROCEEDINGS OF THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

[At a session specially called, commencing Wednesday, March 4th,
1857.]

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4, 1857.

By the President of the United States of America :

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas objects of interest to the United States require that the Senate should be convened at twelve o'clock, on the 4th of March next, to receive and act upon such communications as may be made to it on the part of the Executive :

Now, therefore, I, Franklin Pierce, President of the United States, have considered it to be my duty to issue this, my proclamation, declaring that an extraordinary occasion requires the Senate of the United States to convene for the transaction of business at the Capitol, in the city of Washington, on the 4th day of March next, at twelve o'clock at noon on that day, at which all who shall at that time be entitled to act as members of that body are hereby required to take notice.

Given under my hand and the seal of the United States, at Washington, the sixteenth day of February, anno Domini eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States the eighty-first.

The Senate being called to order,

Mr. Douglas submitted the following resolution; which was considered, by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the oath of office be administered by the honorable James A. Pearce to the honorable James M. Mason, Senator-elect from the State of Virginia, and that he be, and hereby is, chosen President of the Senate pro tempore.

Whereupon

The oath of office was administered to the honorable James M. Mason, and he took the chair.

The credentials of the following Senators having been heretofore presented to the Senate, the oath prescribed by law was administered to them by the President pro tempore, and they took their seats in the Senate:

The honorable James A. Bayard, from the State of Delaware.

The honorable Jesse D. Bright, from the State of Indiana.

The honorable David C. Broderick, from the State of California.

The honorable Zachariah Chandler, from the State of Michigan.

The honorable Simon Cameron, from the State of Pennsylvania.

The honorable Trusten Polk, from the State of Missouri.

The honorable Thomas J. Rusk, from the State of Texas.

The honorable Charles Sumner from the State of Massachusetts.

The honorable James F. Simmons, from State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations.

The honorable John R. Thomson, from the State of New Jersey.

The honorable Benjamin F. Wade, from the State of Ohio.

The oath prescribed by law was also administered to the honorable Stephen R. Mallory, from the State of Florida, and he took his seat in the Senate.

The honorable John C. Breckinridge, Vice-President of the United States, having entered the Senate Chamber, the oath prescribed by law was administered to him by the President of the Senate pro tempore, and he thereupon took the chair and addressed the Senate, as follows:

SENATORS: In assuming the duties of this station, I am quite conscious that I bring to their discharge few other qualifications than a deep sense of the importance of this body in the scheme of the Government, and a feeling of respect for its members.

Happily, my duties are comparatively few and simple, and I am sure they will be made easy by a pervading sense of propriety which will, of itself, be sufficient on all occasions to preserve the dignity and decorum of the Senate.

In administering the rules which you have adopted for the convenience of your proceedings, I shall often need your kind indulgence, and I anticipate with confidence your forbearance towards the errors that spring from inexperience. Cherishing the hope that our official and personal intercourse will be marked by mutual confidence and regard, I look forward with pleasure to our association in the performance of public duties.

It shall be my constant aim, gentlemen of the Senate, to exhibit at all times, and to every member of this body, the courtesy and impartiality which is due to the representatives of equal States.

On motion by Mr. Mason,

Ordered, That when the Senate adjourn, it be to meet at one o'clock to morrow.

The President of the United States, the ex-President, the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, and foreign ministers having entered the Senate Chamber, the Senate proceeded, accompanied by them, to the eastern portico of the Capitol.

The President, thereupon, delivered the following address:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: I appear before you this day to take the solemn oath "that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States."

In entering upon this great office I must humbly invoke the God of our fathers for wisdom and firmness to execute its high and responsible duties in such a manner as to restore harmony and ancient friendship among the people of the several States, and to preserve our free institutions throughout many generations. Convinced that I owe my election to the inherent love for the Constitution and the Union, which still animates the hearts of the American people, let me earnestly ask their powerful support in sustaining all just measures calculated to perpetuate these, the richest political blessings which Heaven has ever bestowed upon any nation. Having determined not to become a candidate for re-election, I shall have no motive to influence my conduct in administering the Government, except the desire ably, and faithfully to serve my country and to live in the grateful memory of my countrymen.

We have recently passed through a Presidential contest in which the passions of our fellow-citizens were excited to the highest degree by questions of deep and vital importance, but when the people proclaimed their will the tempest at once subsided and all was calm.

The voice of the majority, speaking in the manner prescribed by the Constitution, was heard and instant submission followed. Our own country could alone have exhibited so grand and striking a spectacle of the capacity of man for self-government.

What a happy conception, then, was it for Congress to apply this simple rule—that the will of the majority shall govern—to the settlement of the question of domestic slavery in the Territories! Congress is neither “to legislate slavery into any Territory or State, nor to exclude it therefrom, but to leave the people free to form and regulate their domestic institutions in their own way, subject only to the Constitution of the United States.”

As a natural consequence Congress has also prescribed that, when the Territory of Kansas shall be admitted as a State it “shall be received into the Union with or without slavery, as their constitution may prescribe at the time of their admission.”

A difference of opinion has arisen in regard to the point of time when the people of a Territory shall decide the question for themselves.

This is, happily, a matter of but little practical importance. Besides, it is a judicial question which legitimately belongs to the Supreme Court of the United States, before whom it is now pending and will, it is understood, be speedily and finally settled. To their decision, in common with all good citizens, I shall cheerfully submit, whatever this may be, though it has ever been my individual opinion that under the Nebraska-Kansas act the appropriate period will be when the number of actual residents in the Territory shall justify the formation of a constitution with a view to its admission as a State into the Union. But be this as it may, it is the imperative and indispensable duty of the Government of the United States to secure to every resident inhabitant the free and independent expression of his opinion by his vote. This sacred right of each individual must be preserved. That being accomplished, nothing can be fairer than to leave the people of a Territory free from all foreign interference to decide their own destiny for themselves, subject only to the Constitution of the United States.

The whole Territorial question being thus settled upon the principle of popular sovereignty—a principle as ancient as free government itself—everything of a practical nature has been decided. No other question remains for adjustment, because all agree that under the Constitution slavery in the States is beyond the reach of any human power, except that of the respective States themselves wherein it exists. May we not, then, hope that the long agitation on this subject is approaching its end, and that the geographical parties to which it has given birth, so much dreaded by the Father of his Country, will speedily become extinct? Most happy will it be for the country when the public mind shall be diverted from this question to others of more pressing and practical importance. Throughout the whole progress of this agitation, which has scarcely known any intermission for more than twenty years, whilst it has been productive of no positive good to any human being, it has been the prolific source of great evils to the master, to the slave, and to the whole country. It has alienated and estranged the people of the sister States from each other, and has even seriously endangered the very existence of the Union. Nor has the danger yet entirely ceased. Under our system there is a remedy for all mere political evils in the sound sense and sober judgment of the people. Time is a great corrective. Political subjects which but a few years ago excited and exasperated the public mind have passed away and are now nearly forgotten. But this question of domestic slavery is of far graver importance than any mere political question, because, should the agitation continue, it may eventually endanger the personal safety of a large portion of our countrymen where the institution exists. In that event, no form of Government, however admirable in itself, and however productive of material benefits, can compensate for the loss of peace and domestic security around the family altar. Let every Union-loving man, therefore, exert his best influence to suppress this agitation, which, since the recent legislation of Congress, is without any legitimate object.

It is an evil omen of the times that men have undertaken to calculate the mere material value of the Union. Reasoned estimates have been presented of the pecuniary profit and local advantages which would result to different States and sections from its dissolution, and of the comparative injuries which such an event would inflict on other States and sections. Even descending to this low and narrow view of the mighty question, all such calculations are at fault. The bare reference to a single consideration will be conclusive on this point. We at present enjoy a free trade throughout our extensive and expanding country such as the world has never witnessed. This trade is conducted on railroads and canals, on noble rivers and arms of the sea, which bind together the North and the South, the East and the West of our Confederacy. Annihilate this trade, arrest its free progress by the geographical lines of jealous and hostile States, and you destroy the prosperity and onward march of the whole and every part, and involve all in one common ruin. But such considerations, important as they are in themselves, sink into insignificance when we reflect on the terrific evils which would result from disunion to every portion of the Confederacy, to the North not more than to the South, to the East not more than to the West. These I shall not attempt to portray, because I feel an humble confidence that the kind Providence which inspired our fathers with wisdom to frame the most perfect form of Government and Union ever devised by man, will not suffer it to perish until it shall have been peacefully instrumental, by its example, in the extension of civil and religious liberty throughout the world.

Next in importance to the maintenance of the Constitution and the Union is the duty of preserving the Government free from the taint or even the suspicion of corruption. Public virtue is the vital spirit of Republics; and history proves that when this has decayed, and the love of money has usurped its place, although the forms of free government may remain for a season, the substance has departed forever.

Our present financial condition is without a parallel in history. No nation has ever before been embarrassed from too large a surplus in its treasury. This almost necessarily gives birth to extravagant legislation. It produces wild schemes of expenditure, and begets a race of speculators and jobbers whose ingenuity is exerted in contriving and promoting expedients to obtain public money. The purity of official agents, whether rightfully or wrongfully, is suspected, and the character of the Government suffers in the estimation of the people. This is in itself a very great evil.

The natural mode of relief from this embarrassment is to appropriate the surplus in the Treasury to great national objects, for which a clear warrant can be found in the Constitution. Among these I might mention the extinguishment of the public debt, a reasonable increase of the Navy, which is at present inadequate to the protection of our vast tonnage afloat, now greater than that of any other nation, as well as to the defense of our extended sea-coast.

It is beyond all question the true principle, that no more revenue ought to be collected from the people than the amount necessary to defray the expenses of a wise, economical, and efficient administration of the Government. To reach this point, it was necessary to resort to a modification of the tariff; and this has, I trust, been accomplished in such a manner as to do as little injury as may have been practicable to our domestic manufactures, especially those necessary for the defense of the country. Any discrimination against a particular branch, for the purpose of benefiting favored corporations, individuals, or interests, would have been unjust to the rest of the community, and inconsistent with that spirit of fairness and equality which ought to govern in the adjustment of a revenue tariff.

But the squandering of the public money sinks into comparative insignificance as a temptation to corruption when compared with the squandering of the public lands.

No nation in the tide of time has ever been blessed with so rich and noble an inheritance as we enjoy in the public lands. In administering this important trust, whilst it may be wise to grant portions of them for the improvement of the remainder, yet we should never forget that it is our cardinal policy to reserve these lands, as much as may be, for actual settlers, and this at moderate prices. We shall thus not only best promote the prosperity of the new States and Territories by furnishing them a hardy and independent race of honest and industrious citizens, but shall secure homes for our children and our children's children, as well as for those exiles from foreign shores who may seek in this country to improve their condition and to enjoy the blessings of civil and religious liberty. Such emigrants have done much to promote the growth and prosperity of the country. They have proved faithful both in peace and in war. After becoming citizens, they are entitled, under the Constitution and laws, to be placed on a perfect equality with native-born citizens; and in this character they should ever be kindly recognized.

The Federal Constitution is a grant from the States to Congress of certain specific powers; and the question whether this grant should be liberally or strictly construed, has, more or less, divided political parties from the beginning. Without entering into the argument, I desire to state, at the commencement of my administration, that long experience and observation have convinced me that a strict construction of the powers of the Government is the only true, as well as the only safe, theory of the Constitution. Whenever, in our past history, doubtful powers have been exercised by Congress, these have never failed to produce injurious and unhappy consequences. Many such instances might be adduced, if this were the proper occasion. Neither is it necessary for the public service to strain the language of the Constitution; because all the great and useful powers required for a successful administration of the Government, both in peace and in war, have been granted, either in express terms or by the plainest implication.

Whilst deeply convinced of these truths, I yet consider it clear that, under the war-making power, Congress may appropriate money towards the construction of a military road, when this is absolutely necessary for the defense of any State or Territory of the Union against foreign invasion. Under the Constitution Congress has power "to declare war," "to raise and support armies," "to provide and maintain a Navy," and to call forth the militia to "repel invasions." Thus endowed, in an ample manner, with the war-making power, the corresponding duty is required that "the United States shall protect each of them [the States] against invasion." Now, how is it possible to afford this protection to California and our Pacific possessions, except by means of a military road through the Territories of the United States, over which men and munitions of war may be speedily transported from the Atlantic States to meet and repel the invader? In the event of a war with a naval power much stronger than our own we should then have no other available access to the Pacific coast, because such a power would instantly close the route across the Isthmus of Central America. It is impossible to conceive that, whilst the Constitution has expressly required Congress to defend all the States it should yet deny to them, by any fair construction, the only possible means by which one of these States can be defended. Besides, the Government, ever since its origin, has been in the constant practice of constructing military roads. It might also be wise to consider whether the love for the Union which now animates our fellow-citizens on the Pacific coast may not be impaired by our neglect or refusal to provide for them, in their remote and isolated condition, the only means by which the power of the States, on this side of the Rocky Mountains, can reach them in sufficient time to "protect" them "against invasion." I forbear for the present from expressing an opinion as to the wisest and most economical mode in which the Government can lend its aid in accomplishing this great and necessary work. I believe that many of the difficulties in the way, which now appear formidable, will, in a great degree, vanish as soon as the nearest and best route shall have been satisfactorily ascertained.

It may be proper that on this occasion I should make some brief remarks in regard to our rights and duties as a member of the great family of nations. In our intercourse with them there are some plain principles, approved by our own experience, from which we should never depart. We ought to cultivate peace, commerce, and friendship with all nations, and this not merely as the best means of promoting our own material interests, but in a spirit of Christian benevolence towards our fellow-men wherever their lot may be cast. Our diplomacy should be direct and frank, neither seeking to obtain more nor accepting less than is our due. We ought to cherish a sacred regard for the independence of all nations, and never attempt to interfere in the domestic concerns of any unless this shall be imperatively required by the great law of self-preservation. To avoid entangling alliances has been a maxim of our policy ever since the days of Washington, and its wisdom no one will attempt to dispute. In short, we ought to do justice in a kindly spirit to all nations, and require justice from them in return.

It is our glory that whilst other nations have extended their dominions by the sword we have never acquired any territory except by fair purchase or, as in the case of Texas, by the voluntary determination of a brave, kindred, and independent people to blend their destinies with our own. Even our acquisitions from Mexico form no exception. Unwilling to take advantage of the fortune of war against a sister Republic we purchased these possessions, under the treaty of peace, for a sum which was considered at the time a fair equivalent. Our past history forbids that we shall in the future acquire territory unless this be sanctioned by the laws of justice and honor. Acting on this principle no nation will have a right to interfere or to complain if in the progress of events we shall still further extend our possessions. Hitherto, in all our acquisitions, the people, under the protection of the American flag, have enjoyed civil and religious liberty, as well as equal and just laws, and have been contented, prosperous, and happy. Their trade with the rest of the world has rapidly increased, and thus every commercial nation has shared largely in their successful progress.

I shall now proceed to take the oath prescribed by the Constitution, whilst humbly invoking the blessing of Divine Providence on this great people.

The President having finished his address, the oath of office was administered to him by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States; and

The Senate returned to its Chamber.

On motion by Mr. Bright,

The Senate adjourned.

THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1857.

The oath prescribed by law was administered to the honorable Solomon Foot, of the State of Vermont, whose credentials were presented the 4th December, 1856.

Mr. Allen submitted the following resolution; which was considered, by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That a committee, consisting of two members, be appointed to wait on the President of the United States and inform him that a quorum of the Senate has assembled and is ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make.

On motion by Mr. Allen,

Ordered, That the committee be appointed by the Vice President; and Mr. Allen and Mr. Crittenden were appointed.

On motion by Mr. Hamlin,

Ordered, That Vassal D. Pinkham have leave to withdraw his petition and papers.

Mr. Pugh submitted the following resolution for consideration:

Resolved, That the Senate will adjourn, without day, on Monday, the 9th instant, at one o'clock p. m.

Mr. Mason submitted the following resolution for consideration:

Resolved, That the clerks to committees, and the pages in the employ of the Senate at the close of the last session of Congress, be continued during the present special session of the Senate.

On motion by Mr. Mason that the hour of the daily meeting of the Senate be one o'clock until otherwise ordered,

On motion by Mr. Collamer to amend the motion by striking out "one" and inserting twelve,

It was determined in the affirmative.

The motion as amended was agreed to.

So it was Ordered, That the hour of the daily meeting of the Senate be 12 o'clock, until otherwise ordered.

Mr. Bright submitted the following resolution; which was considered, by unanimous consent:

Resolved, That the late Chaplain to the Senate be continued during the present session.

An amendment being proposed by Mr. Biggs,

Ordered, That the further consideration thereof be postponed until to-morrow.

Mr. Allen, from the committee appointed to wait on the President of the United States and inform him that a quorum of the Senate has assembled, and that the Senate is ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make, reported that the committee had performed the duty assigned them, and that the President replied that he would to-morrow make a communication to the Senate.

Mr. Benjamin submitted the following resolution for consideration:

Resolved, That the following be substituted for the 34th rule of the Senate, to take effect from and after the expiration of the present session.

RULE 34. The following standing committees shall be appointed at the commencement of each session, with leave to report by bill or otherwise :

A Committee on Enrolled Bills, to consist of three members.

On motion by Mr. Butler to be excused from serving on any of the committees of the Senate,

It was determined in the negative.

On motion by Mr. Benjamin,

The Senate adjourned.

FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1857.

Mr. Seward presented a petition of subjects of Her Majesty Victoria, Queen of Great Britain and Ireland, relating to a convention signed at Paris the 16th of April, 1856; and,

On motion by Mr. Seward,

Ordered, That it be not received.

Mr. Bigler presented a protest of forty-four members of the house of representatives, and a protest of fifteen members of the senate of the State of Pennsylvania against the proceedings under which the honorable Simon Cameron claims to represent the State in the Senate of the United States from the 4th of March, 1857.

Ordered, That they lie on the table.

Mr. Pearce submitted the following resolution; which was considered, by unanimous consent, and agreed to.

Resolved, That the vacancy of the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution, occasioned by the expiration of the term of the honorable James M. Mason, be now filled by the President of the Senate.

Whereupon

On motion by Mr. Hamlin,

The yeas and nays being desired by one-fifth of the Senators present,
Those who voted in the affirmative are,

Messrs. Allen, Benjamin, Biggs, Bigler, Bright, Broderick, Brown, Butler, Clay, Davis, Douglas, Evans, Fitch, Fitzpatrick, Green, Gwin, Hunter, Iverson, Johnson, Jones, Mason, Reid, Rusk, Sebastian, Seward, Slidell, Thomson of New Jersey, Toombs, Yulee.

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Bell of New Hamp., Cameron, Chandler, Collamer, Dixon, Doolittle, Durkee, Fessenden, Foot, Foster, Hamlin, Harlan, King, Simmons, Stuart, Trumbull, Wade, Wilson.

So the resolution was agreed to.

On motion by Mr. Wade,

Ordered, That the resolutions of the legislature of Ohio, presented this day, be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

On motion by Mr. Trumbull,

Ordered, That the papers on file relating to the election of the honorable Graham N. Fitch by the legislature of Indiana be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. Benjamin submitted the following resolution for consideration:

Resolved, That the following be added as an additional rule: "All subjects before the Senate at the close of the first session of each Congress, including those before committees, shall be resumed and proceeded with at the second session of the same Congress in the same manner as if no adjournment of the Senate had taken place; and all memorials, petitions and other papers referred to committees at the first session and returned to the office of the Secretary at the close of that session shall be returned to the same committees at the commencement of the second session."

Mr. Crittenden submitted the following resolutions; which were read and ordered to be printed.

Resolved, That, in the judgment of the Senate, the complete exemption of all vessels of commerce and their cargoes from seizure or capture in time of war would be a signal blessing to mankind, and that, to the accomplishment of an end so desirable, the Senate will always be ready to give them hearty aid and co-operation.

Resolved, That the mere abolition of privateering would not accomplish that end, but would in its operation be unequal and unjust, depriving the United States of a most effectual means of hostility and retaliation against a superior naval power, which, by means of its greater number of public ships might, almost with impunity, destroy or cripple our commerce and, therefore, such abolition alone would be inconsistent with the policy and interest of the United States.

Resolved, That the policy of the United States, coinciding with the general interest of mankind, is well explained and vindicated in the statesmanlike letter of the American Secretary of State, Mr. Marcy, to the Count de Sartiges, of July 28, 1856.

Resolved, therefore, That the course pursued by President Pierce, as stated in his last annual message, in reference to certain rules or principles of maritime law in time of war, agreed upon and declared by plenipotentiaries of Russia, France, Great Britain, Austria, Prussia, Sardinia, and Turkey, and submitted to him for adoption by this Government, meets the cordial approbation and concurrence of the Senate.

On motion by Mr. Cameron,

Ordered, That the protest of certain members of the house of representatives of the State of Pennsylvania and the protest of members of the Senate of the said State, presented the 6th of March, be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. Cameron submitted the following resolution; which was considered, by unanimous consent, and agreed to.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to furnish to the Senate a statement, at the commencement of the next session, showing the cost of the printing, binding, and paper ordered by Congress for each year, beginning with December, 1845, and ending with the late session.

On motion by Mr. Mason,

Ordered, That the following treaties, remaining undisposed of at the termination of the late session, be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations and printed in confidence for the use of the Senate:

The treaty of friendship, commerce, navigation, and extradition between the United States and the Republic of Chili, signed at Santiago the 27th day of May, 1856. ①

So, two-thirds of the Senators present not voting in the affirmative, the said amendment was not agreed to.

The said treaty having been further amended, by unanimous consent, was reported to the Senate, and the amendments were unanimously agreed to.

Mr. Mason submitted the following resolution for consideration:

Resolved (two-thirds of the Senators present concurring), That the Senate advise and consent to the ratification of the treaty between the United States and Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, relative to Central America, concluded and signed at London on the 17th day of October, 1856, with the following amendments:

Article I: After the word "agree" insert the words as common friends of the parties concerned; and strike out the word "jointly."

Article III: In the 4th line (original treaty) after the words "such laws," insert the words not inconsistent with the sovereign rights of the State of Nicaragua.

In the 15th line, after the words "Indians and" insert the words to exclude the settlement of other persons amongst them, without the license of the State of Nicaragua and the consent of said Indians ; and also,

In the 20th line, after the word "able" insert the words to enter into any agreement, or alliance with, or,

In the 21st line, after the word "of" insert the word Nicaragua.

In the 21st line, after the word "rights" insert the words in said Territory ; and in same line, after the word "any" strike out the word "other."

In the 27th line, after the word "be" insert the words admitted to be citizens, and.

In the 27th line, after the word "former" strike out the words "but it shall be stipulated, in such case, that the said Musquito Indians shall enjoy the same rights, and be liable to the same duties, as the other citizens of the said Republic of Nicaragua."

Article IV. Strike out the following clause :

"3. All bona fide grants of land, for due consideration, made in the name and by the authority of the Mosquito Indians, since the first day of January, eighteen hundred and forty-eight, and lying beyond the limits of the territory reserved for said Indians, shall be confirmed, provided the same shall not exceed in any case the extent of one hundred yards square, if within the limits of San Juan or Greytown, or one league square, if without the same ; and provided that such grant shall not interfere with other legal grants made previously to that date by Spain, the Republic of Central America, or either of the present States of Central America ; and provided further, that no such grant within either of the said States shall include territory desired by its Government for forts, arsenals, or other public buildings. This stipulation is in no manner to affect the grants of land made previously to the first of January, eighteen hundred and forty-eight.

"In case, however, any of the grants referred to in the preceding paragraph of this section should be found to exceed the stipulated extent, the commissioners hereinafter mentioned shall, if satisfied of the bona fides of any such grants, award to the grantee or grantees, or to his or their representatives or assigns, an area equal to the stipulated extent.

"And in case any bona fide grant, or any part thereof, should be desired by the Government for forts, arsenals, or other public buildings, the Government shall compensate the holders for the same, the amount of compensation to be assessed and determined by the said commission."

Article VI: Strike out the following clause :

"They shall also appoint, within the same period, each a commissioner for the purpose of deciding upon the bona fides of all grants of land mentioned in section 3 of Article IV of the treaty as having been made by the Mosquito Indians of lands heretofore possessed by them and lying beyond the limits of the territory described in Article II."

In the last clause of Article VI, in lines 3 and 4 (original treaty), strike out the words "all three, or for any two of the" and insert the words the two.

Article IX: Strike out this article in the following words :

"Article IX. The United States of America and Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland bind themselves, in case the Republics of Nicaragua and Costa Rica, or either of them, should refuse to accept the arrangements contained in the preceding articles, not to propose nor consent to any other arrangements more favorable to the refusing party or parties."

Change Article X to Article IX.

Separate articles:

Article II. Strike out the second clause of definitive arrangement, as follows:

"2. That the islands and their inhabitants of Ruatan, Bonaco, Utila, Barbaretta, Helena, and Morat, situate in the Bay of Honduras, and known as the Bay Islands, having been, by a convention bearing date the twenty seventh day of August, 1856, between her Britannic Majesty and the Republic of Honduras, constituted and declared a free territory under the sovereignty of the said Republic of Honduras, the two contracting parties do hereby mutually engage to recognize and respect in all future time the independence and rights of the said free territory as a part of the Republic of Honduras."

And insert the following in lieu thereof, viz:

2. The two contracting parties do hereby mutually engage to recognize and respect the islands of Ruatan, Bonaco, Utila, Barbaretta, Helena, and Morat, situate in the Bay of Honduras and off the coast of the Republic of Honduras, as under the sovereignty and as part of the said Republic of Honduras.

After debate,

On motion by Mr. Houston,

The Senate adjourned.

SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1857.

Mr. Thomson, of New Jersey, submitted the following resolution; which was considered, by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That a committee consisting of two members be appointed by the President of the United States and inform him that, unless he may have further communications to make, the Senate are ready to adjourn.

On motion by Mr. Thomson of New Jersey,

Ordered, That the committee be appointed by the Vice-President; and Mr. Thomson, of New Jersey, and Mr. Collamer were appointed.

Mr. Davis submitted the following resolution; which was considered, by unanimous consent, and referred to the Committee on Printing:

Resolved, That the Committee on Printing be instructed to inquire into the propriety of printing the report of Captain McClelland, of the United States Army, on the armies of Europe and the campaign of the Crimea, and that five thousand extra copies be printed for distribution, one thousand of which shall be for the use of the War Department.

Mr. Gwin submitted the following resolution; which was considered, by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the President be requested to cause to be laid before the Senate, on the first day of its next session, the copies of papers called for by the resolution of the Senate of 20th of February, 1857, including those communicated by the President on the 3d instant, in all their details, as required in said resolution; also detailed notes showing what particular vouchers therein referred to were explained, and in what form and manner explained, whether by indorsement in body of the vouchers, and if so, to what extent, and which of them; or otherwise on the vouchers, and if so, which of them; and if on separate pieces of paper, which of them; also, which of said vouchers, if any, bear evidences of having been altered or amended after the same had been signed, and also specifying, separately, all explanations made subsequent to the action of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, in such manner as to show by whom each of said explanations were made.

The Vice-President having retired,

On motion by Mr. Fitzpatrick,

The Senate proceeded to the election of a President pro tempore by ballot; and

On counting the ballots it appeared that the honorable Thomas J. Rusk had a majority and was duly elected.

The President pro tempore, on taking the chair, addressed the Senate as follows:

“SENATORS: I thank you for the honor you have just conferred. It shall be my effort to deserve it by a just and impartial discharge to the best of my ability of the duties which your confidence has devolved upon me.”

Mr. Seward submitted the following resolution; which was considered, by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate are unanimously tendered to the honorable John C. Breckinridge for the dignity and impartiality with which he has discharged the duties of Presiding Officer of this body.

M. Johnson, from the Committee on Printing, to whom was referred a resolution to inquire into the propriety of printing the report of Captain McClellan, of the United States Army, on the armies of Europe and the campaign of the Crimea, reported thereon.

The Senate proceeded to consider the report; and, in concurrence therewith,

Ordered, That the report of the Secretary of War, communicating the report of Captain McClellan, one of the officers sent to the seat of war in Europe in 1855 and 1856, be printed, and that 5,000 extra copies be printed, one thousand of which shall be for the use of the War Department.

Resolved, That the Senate advise and consent to the appointment of the said persons, agreeably to their nominations respectively.

On motion by Mr. Gwin that the Senate reconsider so much of the said resolution as advises and consents to the appointment of Edwin Walker,

It was determined in the affirmative.

The Senate proceeded to consider the nomination of Andrew W. Evans; and

Resolved, That the Senate advise and consent to his appointment, agreeably to the nomination.

The Senate proceeded to consider the resolution submitted by Mr. Slidell yesterday, making an allowance to clerks of committees; and

The resolution having been amended on motion by Mr. Slidell, was agreed to as follows:

Resolved, That the clerks employed by the standing committees of the Senate, except the clerks of the Committees on Finance, Printing, and Claims, including those committees which have been discontinued by the partial adoption of the report of the special committee submitted on the 17th February, 1857, shall receive at the close of this session an extra compensation equal to the amount of their per diem for sixty days.

A motion was made by Mr. Toombs that the Senate reconsider the vote agreeing to the resolution last mentioned.

Mr. Thomson, of New Jersey, from the committee appointed to wait on the President of the United States and inform him that, unless he may have further communications to make, the Senate is ready to adjourn, reported that they had performed the duty assigned them, and that the President replied that he had no further communication to make, and desired the committee "to express to the Senate his gratitude for its remaining so long in session."

The hour fixed by the resolution of the 12th instant for closing the present session of the Senate having arrived,

The President pro tempore declared the Senate to be adjourned sine die.
